Why CustomLASIK?

- Studies have shown that for some people, CustomLASIK is necessary for optimum results.
- Studies have shown with CustomLASIK, many people achieve better vision than they did with contacts and eye glasses.
- CustomLASIK uses a device called a Wavescan that actually takes a "map" or picture of the surface of your eye, showing all of the imperfections (that the doctor may refer to as higher or lower-order aberrations). That information is then transferred to the laser where the surgeon can then correct the imperfections and reshape the cornea of the eye, which results in better vision.
- Because CustomLASIK treats the higher and lower-order aberrations, studies has shown that Custom can reduce the amount of common side effects some people experience, such as night glare and halos.
- CustomLASIK isn't for everyone. We suggest you undergo a complimentary consultation to decide if it's right for you.
